& LEARNING

Learning Matters has been committed, to quality education, since its inception in 2005. We are pioneers in establishing a truly play based early childhood program founded on evidence based research in child development.

After the successful completion of our first batch, we are thrilled to announce our next batch of Foundations of Early Childhood Learning collaboratively with Finland International Education (FINE), Finland.

This 60 hours online course has been co created by experienced Early Childhood Educators from Finland and India. The contents of the course will equip participants with research based practical know how on how to maximize childhood experiences for optimal growth and development.

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

- This research-based, online course will equip participants on the Foundations of Early Childhood education.
- The early years are crucial in shaping brain architecture and hence the early experiences of a child will impact how their brain will develop.
- In this course we will share the current neuroscience on early childhood and child development. You will be introduced to the theoretical and practical pedagogy that supports joyous learning and optimal development in young children.
- The essential elements of the role of play in early emergent literacy, social and emotional cognition, physical and cognitive will be shared. The importance and ways to support art, music and movement will be covered. The course will cover ways to observe and document children's learning, and ways to create an environment that supports learning.
- Our goal is that through this training we will build a like minded community of learners committed to understanding and serving young children.

BENEFITS OF THIS COURSE FOR YOU

- Learn from International professionals in the early childhood field.
- Participate in an informed research based course.
- Be informed on current global best practices in early childhood.

TESTIMONIALS

“It really has been a revelation in the way how I engage my child. From somebody who was purchasing every possible toy available on Amazon to somebody who is now using regular household items to engage my child. I have to admit that now I am experiencing fewer meltdowns, she is happier and is learning so much. I have been providing her with a lot of open ended play experiences.”

There so many valuable insights. It was a wonderful training and would love to do forthcoming levels as there is still so much to learn.

Nayanpreet Kaur Luthra,

Parent of a 2 year old

“This training has been like a wake up call, igniting a spark and bringing back the realisation and importance of research. It has driven me to think further and out of the box. It has done wonders, much beyond my expectations.”

Chitrita Roy

Designation - Coordinator - LKG/UKG

Class I teach - UKG.

School - Apeejay School, Park Street. Kolkata.

“The department of Education should work in collaboration with Learning Matters so that we can train and orient the entire learning community of the importance of play, creativity, exposure and opportunities to be given to young children so that ECE can be taken to the next level.”

Learning Actually Matters

Samrah Khan

Early Childhood Educator

School of Excellence Madanpur Khadar
